

Home
By Susan Walton

Patchwork fields of yellow, green and brown
Cornstalks sway in the gentle breeze as bees buzz.
The sweet air pats my face as I smell freshly cut hay.
Dogs bark their greetings.
Heifers call their calves for supper.
And for myself, digging my toes into the soft cool dirt,
I have come Home.